Medical History Symposium The First Twenty Years, 2002-2022

The following pages include programs and flyers for the CAMA Medical History Symposium, 2002-2022. [No symposia were held 2014 and 2015.] Information includes the event location, speakers, and presentation titles.

Who we are

The Chicago Area Medical Archivists (CAMA) is an informal group of archivists, librarians, healthcare professionals, and others interested in medical history in the Chicago area. Many CAMA members represent Chicago-based professional and clinical specialty associations, academic medical centers, universities, hospitals, and museums.

Since 2002, CAMA has served as a professional network to share information and resources through meetings, an annual symposium, and a mailing list.

We promote collaborative efforts among participating members and increased awareness and appreciation of the Chicago area's important health history for the research community and general public.

CAMA Medical History Symposium

Since October 2002, CAMA has sponsored a medical history symposium hosted by member institutions. Past symposia have featured presentations by archivists, librarians, physicians and nurses, institutional exhibits, roundtable discussions and facility tours.

5th Annual Medical History Symposium

Friday, October 6, 2006

National Archives and Records Administration-Great Lakes Region 7358 S.
Pulaski Road Chicago, IL 60629-5898

Co-Sponsored by the Chicago Area Medical Archivists and the National Archives

Program Schedule

9:00 a.m. - 9:10 a.m.      Welcome/Introduction

9:10 a.m. - 9:40 a.m.      "Bulls, Bears, and Cubs: Veterinary Medicine in Chicago 1864 and Beyond." A brief history of the Chicago-based American Veterinary Medical Association, including information about Chicago's three veterinary colleges, the first female graduate of a veterinary college in the United States, and anecdotes (amusing and otherwise) relating to veterinary medicine in the City of Chicago, all from the archives of the Association's Library. Presenter: Diane A.
Fagen, Librarian, American Veterinary Medical Association.

9:40 a.m. - 10:20 a.m.      "From the Mouths of Babes: Swallowed Foreign Objects and What We Can Learn from Them." This presentation highlights the unique Stanton A. Friedberg, Sr., M.D. Collection at the Rush University Medical Center Archives. The collection features foreign objects removed from the air and food passages of young children during endoscopic procedures performed by Dr. Friedberg at Presbyterian, Cook County and Children's Memorial Hospitals between 1900 and 1910. Examples of the objects - including pins, buttons, coins, toys, and false teeth - will be shown, followed by an explanation of the procedures used by Dr. Friedberg to remove them and a discussion of the social and cultural history we can glean from these cultural artifacts. Presenter: Heather J. Stecklein, Librarian/Archivist, Rush University Medical Center Archives.

10:20 a.m. - 10:30 a.m. Break

10:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. "Recent Legislative Developments Concerning Archives and Copyright." Many archival repositories hold so-called "orphan works," materials whose owners are difficult or impossible to locate. Such works are generally unavailable to researchers since the search for the owners can be time and cost prohibitive, and repositories run the risk of potential copyright owners coming forward to demand compensation. In May, the House Subcommittee on the Courts, the Internet and Intellectual Property approved H.R. 5439, the "Orphan Works Act of 2006," which mitigates a legislative solution to some of the concerns of repositories. An expert on copyright law will offer an overview of the orphan works proposal, H.R. 5439, the section 108 study group process, existing problems, proposed solutions and concerns. Presenter: Tomas Lipinski, Co-Director of the Center for Information Policy Research (CIPR), School of Information Studies, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. Lunch on your own

12:30 p.m. - 1:10 p.m. "Historians and Archivists: The University of Illinois and the Early 20th Century Chicago Medical Scene." Historian Winton Solberg, author of The University of Illinois, 1894-1904: The Shaping of the University, is currently writing a history of the University of Illinois College of Medicine. His presentation will explore the challenges of finding and evaluating original materials from the founding of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago in 1881 and ending with the construction of what is now the U of I medical complex on the West Side of Chicago. Presenter: Winton Solberg, Professor Emeritus of History, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

1:10 p.m. - 1:40 p.m. "Saints and Sinners among the Sick: The Deaconess Era in Two Chicago Hospitals 1865 - 1925." The founding and early histories of Passavant and Wesley Memorial Hospitals can be traced to the deaconess movement in Chicago's Lutheran and Methodist Episcopal churches. Utilizing both published sources supplemented by unpublished accounts by Lucy Rider Meyer, founder of the Chicago Training School for City, Home and Foreign Missions and the Chicago Deaconess Home, Mark Hatfield, M.D. and hospital president Perley Lowe, this session will relate the minor triumphs, major trials, and ultimate denouement of the deaconess influence in hospital administration and nursing education. Presenter: Susan Sacharski, Archivist, Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

1:40 p.m. - 1:50 p.m. Break

1:50 p.m. - 2:20 p.m. "An Introduction to National Archives Resources Relating to the History of Medicine." This presentation will provide introductory information about medicine-related records at the National Archives in Washington, DC and College Park, MD; the 12 regional archives including the Great Lakes Region in Chicago; the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, MO; and the 12 Presidential Libraries for Presidents Hoover through Clinton. This presentation will concentrate on records created or received by elements of all three branches of the U.S. Government and will be suggestive rather than comprehensive; however, the types of Federal records available and general explanations of access procedures will provide a potentially useful summary of the variety and scope of National Archives resources. Presenter: Donald Jackanicz, Archivist, National Archives and Records Administration-Great Lakes Region.

2:20 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Tour of temporary exhibit in the National Archives stacks about the interaction of the U.S. Government with the practice of medicine, with a discussion about connections between individual repositories' collections, the National Archives, and the community of current and future medical historians. (In the event the group participating in the tour is larger than 20, the discussion may be held in the symposium's conference room).

The Edith Ayres and Helen Burnett Wood Memorial Symposium
1:00 – 5:00 PM, Thursday, April 20, 2017
University of Illinois College of Nursing
Third Floor Event Center

Joint Sponsors:
Midwest Nursing History Research Center, College of Nursing, UIC
Chicago Area Medical Archivists

One hundred years ago, on May 20 1917, Edith Ayres and Helen Burnett Wood were the first US service people killed after the United States entered World War One. They were both young nurses from Chicago. Edith Ayres graduated from the Illinois Training School for Nurses in 1913; Helen Burnett Wood graduated one year later from the Evanston Hospital Training School. Shell fragments during onboard firing practice killed them at once and wounded another nurse, Emma Matzen.

This symposium is to honor their memory and the memory of all the nurses who served during “The War to End All Wars.”
